Almost Instant Death of Thomas Jackson

Well-Known Miner of McGillivray Co. Killed at Noon Last Friday—Buried on Monday

"Joe, help me," followed shortly after by "Oh I am finished," were the last words of Thomas Jackson, aged 46 years, miner at McGillivray Co. and resident in Coleman since 1912.

His death was caused shortly after the noon hour on Feb. 27 by the fall of a very large rock in the room in which he was working in No. 9 entry, whilst he was digging a hole in which to place a prop to safeguard himself and partner, Joe Cieślak, who was only a few feet distant and who narrowly escaped a similar fate.

The verdict at the coroner's inquest on Saturday was "Accidental death," with no blame attached to any person. The coroner, A. M. Morrison, stated that most of the fatalities during his 20 years of experience here were from similar causes of rocks falling from the roof of working places, and no matter how careful a miner might be in safeguarding his place, it seemed there was no way in which a man might be forewarned of the danger of rock coming down on him.

Medical evidence given by Dr. Keith McLean, was to the effect that he met the body of Jackson being brought from the mine, but he was past human aid. An examination showed he had suffered a fracture at the base of the skull, contusion on right hip, and grazes and bruises on other parts of the body. The skull fracture would undoubtedly have caused death.

Arthur E. Graham, mine surveyor, submitted a plan with explanation on the place where the fatality occurred, and J. O. McDonald, pit boss, spoke on the record of Jackson as a miner, whom he described as fully competent, very careful, the holder of a third-class certificate and the holder of fire-boss' papers. In his opinion, there was no way of finding out the size of the rock prior to its falling, and it had apparently given no indication of weakening.

dead man, told of going on shift on Friday morning at 8 a. m. At 11:30 a. m. he and Jackson sat down to eat lunch, and on recommencing work, Jackson started to place a prop to make the roof safer. He was in the act of doing this, when the big rock came down on him, pinning him, so that Cieślak could not move him. It was then that Jackson, realizing the hopelessness of getting out alive, exclaimed "I am finished." Cieślak shouted to the coal bucker, Fred Goldring, for help. The latter came up to see what was wrong, and finding that it was impossible for him and Cieślak to move the rock, Goldring went for more assistance.

Peter Sharp, driver boss, was among those who hurried to the place, but in the meantime other help had arrived and Jackson had been extricated from under part of the rock. He examined him to find if his heart was beating, but he was dead.

Robert Parry, fire-boss, had examined the room at 9:30 that morning, when everything appeared satisfactory. The rock which fell was very big, from 9 to 10 feet long and over 2½ feet thick.

On completion of the evidence, the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, caused by the fracture at the base of the skull. The jurymen were Reg. Hay, foreman; James Naylor, Joe Melanchuk, Joe Plante, Fred Emery, Wyndham Jones, Max Stigler was present on behalf of Coleman Miners Association, and W. E. G. Hall for the Mines Branch of the province.

Funeral On Monday

The funeral service was held on Monday at the home on Second street, Rev. A. E. Larke of Blairmore conducting. Pallbearers were old members of Coleman football club, of which Mr. Jackson had been a member as early as 1913. They were J. Emmerson, Sam Moores, Wm. Roughhead, John Bell, Fred Beddington and G. Booth.

Despite the stormy day, many of the miners attended the funeral service, interment being made in the Union cemetery. Floral tributes were sent by various organizations with which deceased had been connected and many friends of the family in the Pass towns. He was a past president of Coleman Homing Society.

Besides his sorrowing wife, the following children mourn his untimely death: Muriel, Ronald, Beatrice, Ruthie, (living with relatives on Vancouver Island) Doris and Sidney. Their ages range from 6 to 20 years. He was born in Wigan, Lancashire, and was married just 21 years ago the day of the inquest, Feb. 22. His mother is still living in England, besides a sister, Doris Fairbrother. Other relatives in Canada, are William, Jack, Richard, brothers, of Coleman; Frank of Coal Creek, and Joe Ball also of Coleman.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. T. Jackson and family wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for their sympathy and floral offerings in the loss of a beloved husband and father; also those who loaned cars for the funeral.

Students of Coleman High school held their annual dance in the Italian hall last Friday evening. The large number of students and guests present voted it an outstanding success.

Teams Set for Drumheller vs. Coleman Final

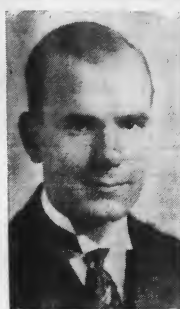

First Game of Finals for Southern Alberta Senior Amateur Championship Will Draw Capacity House—Advance Seat Sale Indicates Record Crowd

Coleman Canadians enter into the finals for the Southern Alberta championship with confidence to give a good account of themselves and with determination to capture the outstanding honors of the season.

The first game in a best two-out-of-three series will open here at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Coleman's line-up will be as follows: Scodarello; R. Kwasney, Johnson; Jenkins, W. Fraser, Fisher; Lopichuk, Joyce, P. Brown; J. Kwasney, J. Fraser, F. Brown. Drumheller's line-up is not known definitely at time of going to press, but it will be practically the same as played against Calgary Bronks, whom they defeated in two games by a score of 1-0 in each game, making a third game unnecessary.

Following Saturday's game here, Canadians will leave on Sunday for Drumheller to play on Monday, March 2, and if a third game is necessary to decide the championship, it will be (Continued on Page 5)

Armed Robbery Causes Local Excitement

At Point of Revolvers Two Men Rob Distributors Ltd. of $90 on Saturday Afternoon

John Bell, manager of the local branch of Distributors Ltd. got the surprise of his life on Saturday afternoon when two young men wearing masks and disguising their voices coolly walked in and after locking Bell, W. Roughhead, Jackie Bell and Roy Savage, in the storage warehouse, gathered up the cash amounting to about $90, and departed as easily as they entered. Both carried revolvers, states Bell.

J. Bell and Roughhead were in the warehouse when the men entered and Jackie Bell and his companion were in the office. Jackie thought it was a couple of fellows pulling off a joke, and started to laugh at them, but they gruffly hustled him into the warehouse with the other men. They were so surprised that they were unable to retain sufficient impression of the men to help the police in identification.

The alarm was given by Bell getting out of the warehouse almost immediately after the men left.

Sergeant Cawsey of the R. C. M. P., Blairmore, started for Coleman. He reported having met no cars between the two towns. Though a check-up was made by Constable Antel, town Constable, no clues were obtained or information secured which might help in tracing the robbers.

Junior Championship Game Won By Medicine Hat

Coleman, Tigers Faulty Team Work Banishes Further Advance This Season.

Trivial errors on the part of Coleman Tigers cost them any chance they may have had in advancing to the third round of the junior provincial play-offs when they were defeated by Medicine Hat Tigers by a 3-1 score last Saturday evening. A pass misjudged by Coleman was responsible for the first goal and a few seconds later when two Coleman players were sent off, one for tripping and the other for boarding, the penalties running concurrently, their hopes faded, the Hat taking this opportunity at the start of the second period to salt away the game by scoring two goals in the first three minutes to take a 3-0 lead while having the advantage in manpower.

The Hat players were disappointing in their performance in view of the favorable publicity which goes with all their games. Coleman were every bit as good as their opponents and had they played heads-up hockey and finished better around the net there would have been an entirely different result.

Now that the Hat has defeated Coleman, the latter team wishes them every success and hope they win the provincial title and represent the province in the Memorial Cup playdowns.

Soviet Government Is Afraid Of Attack By Germany And Japan

Moscow. Soviet newspapers declared the Far Eastern situation is creating the danger of "another world war." This situation in the government officially said is causing it "serious concern."

Tamekichi Ota, the Japanese ambassador, consulted Tokyo by wire in regard to a Soviet suggestion that steps be taken immediately to put a halt to frequent collisions on the border between Manchoukuo and Outer Mongolia.

The declarations were made in connection with the 18th anniversary of the organization of the red army, now a force of 1,300,000 men, which newspapers said is the Soviet Union's answer to "threats of war by Japan and Germany."

The government's English language newspaper, Moscow Daily News, maintained the German plan for a simultaneous action with Japan against the Soviet Union and an attack on France by an invasion of Holland and Belgium.

The Press estimated that Germany has 2,000,000 men under arms and 8,000,000 employed in munition and armament plants. The number of planes of the German air force was placed at 4,000 and British estimates were cited to show that German factories are producing 300 pieces of artillery and 200 tanks monthly.

Japanese industry is organized, the newspaper said, to produce during the first year of war thousands of field guns, 1,000,000 shells, 1,000,000 rifles, 30,000 machine guns, 1,000 tanks, 3,000 aeroplanes, and 600,000 tons of warships.

Poland was declared to have 1,000 aeroplanes, 600 tanks and to be building roads to facilitate the transportation of German troops to the Soviet border.

Finland was accused of preparing aerodromes for use of German military machines.

Buying Stock For Japan

London, Ont.—Canadian livestock is being used to build and strengthen the dairy industry in Japan. Kanichi Kuzuhara, buyer for the great Kowai farm, of Iwateken, was in London after having purchased from Thomas Dent, of Woodstock, a best stein bull for $5,000. Mr. Kuzuhara will buy other cattle during his trip through Canada.

Winnipeg.—Students of theology at Manitoba College have been ordered to attend all lectures for the remainder of the term or forfeit examinations or scholarship privileges. A meeting of the faculty has been called to protest the order.

Finance Minister Is Opposed To Any Scheme Of Inflation

Ottawa.—Direct opposition to any scheme of inflation was expressed in the House of Commons by Finance Minister Dunning in his first major pronouncement on monetary policies since the King government went into office.

At the same time the finance minister said the government was sympathetic to changes in old age pension laws, reducing the age limit below 70 where it has rested since the act was introduced 10 years ago.

The finance minister said conditions to-day would not permit him to concur in the resolution of A. A. Heaps (C.C.F., Winnipeg North) to pay monthly pensions to men and women reaching the age of 60 who were willing to accept the share jobs. It would cost too much money—$500,000,000—if it were made compulsory.

"Neither is the government prepared at this session of parliament," Mr. Dunning continued, "to go further in the field of old age pension legislation, not because we would not like it, but because we think this country must hold tight for a little while until we can see more clearly than any of us here can see to-day."

Conservative Leader Bennett also expressed opposition to the Heaps plan but came out in favor of a broad national system of pensions.

"I believe a contributory system of pensions should be in force in Canada," Mr. Bennett said, dis-

Six Killed In Snowslide

Survivors Of Accident At Gold Mine Had Terrible Experience

Mancos, Colo.—A story of horror and suffering was told as the first survivors were brought through a blinding blizzard from the Heperus gold mine, where six were killed and three injured by a gigantic snowslide.

Rescue parties, struggling on skis and snowshoes through a blizzard to the demolished wreckage of the mine buildings, met two of the injured survivors at the Red Arrow mine, about midway.

"It was a terrible experience," said Alvin Fink, 20-year-old mine employee. He was buried under the slide amid the wreckage of a building at the mine, situated above timberline at an altitude of 11,000 feet.

Fifteen persons survived the thundering mass of ice and snow that slid several hundred feet down a cliff and nearly wiped out the tiny mine settlement.

Hoard Of Gold Seized

U.S. Secret Service Agents Made

Had In New York
New York.—Ten thousand $20 gold pieces, greatest haul since enactment of the Gold Hoarding act of 1934, were seized by United States secret service agents. The gold, valued at $338,000 at current prices, was discovered in the safety box of Zeik Joezowicz, described as a wealthy European.

The gold, said William H. Houghton, head of the raiders, is subject to confiscation. In addition, an alleged boarder may be fined as much as $10,000 and sentenced to 10 years in prison, may be used in civil court by the government for twice the amount of the hoard.

Study Elections Act

Committee To Be Formed To Suggest Amendments

Ottawa.—A special committee of the House of Commons will be formed soon to study proportional representation; the alternative vote in single-member constituencies; compulsory registration of voters, and compulsory voting. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, has given notice he will move for appointment of such a committee to study the Dominion Elections Act and the Dominion Franchise Act and suggest amendments to these two statutes.

Boost In Export Trade

Increased Exports To Britain And United States For January

Ottawa.—Citing figures of increased exports to the United Kingdom and the United States for January, compared with January, 1935, Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, declared in a statement there had been a "sharp advance" in trade with these two countries.

"Exports to the United Kingdom in January amounted to $21,882,840 compared with $16,811,036 in Jan. 1935, an increase of $5,071,804 or 30 1/2 per cent.," the minister said. "Exports to the United States amounted to $20,129,564 compared with $17,529,101, an increase of $2,600,463 or almost 15 per cent."

The minister stated that "contrary to the expectation of opponents of the reciprocity agreement with the United States, the opening up of trade with that country had not affected adversely Canadian trade with the United Kingdom. On the other hand, exports to the United Kingdom had increased at an even greater rate than the United States."

Mutual Distrust

Italo-German Relationships Still A

Matter Of Interest
Berlin.—The puzzle of Italo-German relationships and the possibilities for an Italo-German rapprochement became the centre of diplomatic interest here.

A new impetus was given by the return from Rome of Ulrich Von Hassell, Germany's ambassador, who flew here by aeroplane after conferring with Fulvio Suvich, Italian under-secretary for foreign affairs.

Just how much there might be in reports from Italy that Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini were reaching an agreement on the subject of independent Austria was difficult to ascertain from Germany's officialdom.

But what arouses the greatest interest at the present moment is the possibility that the mutual fear of isolation, on the part of both Germany and Italy, will actually drive Hitler and Mussolini to collaborate despite the mutual distrust which has cropped out repeatedly in the last few years.

Income Tax Bill

Ontario Taking From Municipalities

Right To Levy Tax
Toronto.—Ontario's first income tax bill, taking from municipalities the right to tax income and placing the levy in the hands of the province, received second reading in the legislature after opposition speakers had tried without success to have the government announce its financial position. Italy that Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini were reaching an agreement on the subject of independent Austria was difficult to ascertain from Germany's officialdom.

The vote was 51 to 16 and the administration immediately moved for committee discussion of the measure. Premier Hepburn and Hon. Paul Leduc, minister of mines, who is piloting the legislation through the house, stressed the urgent need of quick passage.

Second reading followed defeat of an opposition amendment and an effort to censure Speaker N. O. Hipel for alleged partiality.

ATTACKS PREMIER

Sir Austen Chamberlain, famous British statesman, who attacked Premier Baldwin during a debate in the House of Commons. He stated Mr. Baldwin should not be made head of the Committee for Imperial Defense, and drew attention to the Prime Minister's errors.

Cope With Difficulties

No Other Generation Better Equipped Than The Present, Says Hon.

R. B. Bennett

Ottawa.—No other generation than this had been better equipped by the inventive genius of man and the recorded experiences of their predecessors to cope with the difficulties of mankind, former prime minister Bennett told a gathering organized by the junior board of trade of Montreal, making their second annual pilgrimage to the capital.

James S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, recalled to the young men that in the pioneer days of Canada the policy was "paddle your own canoe." All that had been changed, he said, and now it was a case of "we are all in the same boat and we must sink or swim together."

J. H. Blackmore, leader of the Social Credit group, Hon. H. H. Stevens, representative of the Reconstruction party, and Hon. C. H. Cahoon, former secretary of state, were called on for brief addresses. Mr. Stevens urged that boards of trade revive their boards arbitration to settle local industrial disputes.

Granted Extra Leave

Ottawa.—Returned soldiers in the government service will be given 21 days extra leave with pay this summer to enable them to take part in the Vimy pilgrimage. Secretary of State Rinfret announced in the House of Commons, replying to Thomas Reid (Lib., New Westminster). This leave will be in addition to the ordinary holiday leave of three weeks.

Higher Relief Costs

Edmonton.—Jobless relief in Alberta cost $4,624,788 for the year ended March 31, 1935, which was $461,791 more than the year previous, according to the annual report of the provincial relief commission just tabled in the legislature. Report of the relief and public welfare bureau also has been tabled.

Railway Minister Expresses Faith In Hudson Bay Route

Ottawa.—Belief the port of Churchill would develop naturally over a period of time was expressed in the House of Commons by Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of railways, who in his closing days had charge of erection of the grain elevator there.

Marine insurance rates on the Hudson Bay route would come down as use of the route increased and experience justified lower rates. A good deal depended on the freight rates on the Great Lakes, the competitive route, which were now depressed. When the lake shipping situation returned to normal, Mr. Howe predicted, the Churchill route would enjoy a considerable rate advantage from points in northern Saskatchewan.

The minister was replying to suggestions from Saskatchewan members that the government assume the insurance on boats using the route itself or subsidize ships by paying part of their insurance charges. He was not partial to that idea.

Insurance rates on the Hudson Bay route were about four times as high as on the St. Lawrence route, said Mr. Howe. A ship cargo sailing from Montreal to Europe paid $12,150 and from Churchill to Europe, $7,875.

Mr. Howe said he had spent a good deal of time at Churchill and had talked to many captains of ships entering the port. They agreed it was ordinarily a safe route as Hudson Strait was wide and deep and the danger of ice was slight owing to the service provided by the government icebreaker which kept tab on ice movements.

On the other hand it was an out-of-the-way route and little travelled. There was still doubt as to whether the steamer Bright Fan sank as a result of an accident or a plan. The latter sort of thing was much more likely to happen on the Hudson Bay route than on a more travelled seaway.

"There are some strange things about the Bright Fan," Mr. Howe remarked.

A. M. Young (Lib., Saskatoon) suggested the government might assume the insurance on boats using the route and Dr. Thomas Dunnehy (Lib., Willow Bunch) said as the government was giving subsidies to shipping companies operating on both the Atlantic and Pacific coast it might well give a subsidy to defray part of the insurance charges on the northern route.

Answering a question from Dave Spence (Cons., Toronto-Parkdale), Mr. Howe said the total cost of the Hudson Bay Railway and the port of Churchill to date was about $43,000,000. To another question from Conservative Leader Bennett he replied the operating loss on the railway, exclusive of interest charges, last year was $326,000.

Capital expenditures on the railway and the port were nearing an end, said Mr. Howe, as he asked the house to approve the estimates of $217,500 for capital outlay next year. It compares with $304,500 voted last year. Of the next year's estimate $133,000 is for the port and $84,500 for the railway.

Mr. Bennett said the insurance underwriters still had a loss on the Bay route owing to the two ships which had met with accidents. The total insurance they had collected, even at the high rates, on all ships which had travelled the route as far fell short of meeting the amount they had to pay on the two claims.

There is very little trouble from snow on the Bay route because the wind blows it away, the minister told a questioner.

It took time to start grain moving through the Panama Canal, stated Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former minister of agriculture.

It was about seven years from the time the Vancouver elevator was built until grain started moving through the port in large volume.

The minister told Mr. Spence insurance rates were in force from August 10 to October 10, although it was possible boats could use the route another month. He believed the insurance rates would be extended to 2 1/2 or possibly three months.

"I hope to see the time when 25,000,000 bushels of grain move out of Churchill," Mr. Howe said. He did not know of any special appeals that could be made to exporters to use the route, because they all knew of it, and it was well known that a fraction of a cent would divert the flow of grain. The natural development of the route would popularize it.

Mr. Young said there was a feeling that everything was not being done to popularize the route. He suggested the government itself carry the insurance.

Interior Minister Crerar, in whose riding Churchill lies, said he believed it would not be long until the port was open 3 1/2 or four months a year.

British Bomber Crashes

Two Accidents During Exercises By Royal Air Force

London.—Three men were killed and three more were wounded and feared drowned after night bombing exercises by the Royal Air Force resulted in two accidents.

Two aircraftmen and one sergeant died in the crash of a bomber near Petersfield, Hampshire. A short time after another British bombing plane fell into the English channel near Le Havre, France.

The bomber which met disaster over the channel sank after float for half an hour. It carried a crew of four men, of whom succeeded in swimming to shore.

Director Of Geographical Society

Ottawa.—Senator W. A. Buchanan, of Lethbridge, Alta., was elected as a director of the Canadian Geographical Society for a three-year period at the annual meeting.

Secret British Foreign Office Document Published In Rome

London.—Questions rattled excitedly across the floor of the House of Commons about the secret British foreign office document published in Rome. The document concerned the report of a British interdepartmental committee's inquiry into the British interests in Ethiopia as threatened by a possible Italian invasion. The inquiry was conducted a year ago and the report was kept secret.

A first class storm threatened. Winston Churchill, former secretary of state for war, raised the matter. Earlier W. M. Adamson, Labor, had questioned the prime minister on another alleged leakage to a Sheffield newspaper and mentioned the Rome publication. And when Churchill stressed the point the speaker, Captain Pittroy, said the question had been asked previously.

"May I ask the prime minister whether he is ready to deal with it?" asked Churchill.

The question brought renewed interruption from the back benches. Mr. Baldwin said nothing. George Lansbury, former Labor leader, asked whether in view of the scheduled debate on oil sanctions the prime minister would be prepared to table a white paper giving the actual text of the document published in Rome.

Mr. Baldwin replied that he had been very much engaged all morning and had not had an opportunity to consider the matter.

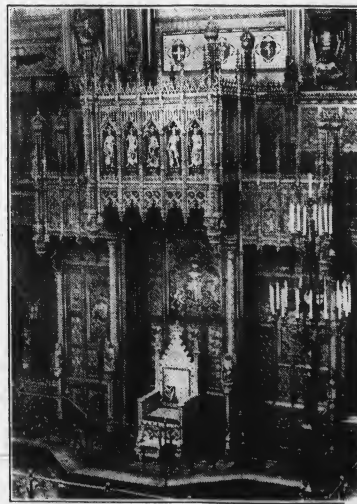

Mr. Lansbury pressed that unless the house was in full possession of the facts it could not properly discuss foreign affairs. The house wanted to know, he continued, whether the statements published in Rome were accurate or not.

Mr. Baldwin: "I must consider the point. I cannot answer it now."

"I cannot answer that now," repeated Mr. Baldwin.

But Prime Minister Baldwin was closely questioned regarding a press statement outlining the government's defence plans. He denied leakage had occurred and said that articles referred to had been based merely on intelligent anticipation and a knowledge of the available facts.

ONE THRONE IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS

A change of poignant significance has taken place in the House of Lords at Westminster. On the royal dais behind the woodwork for many years there have been two thrones, one for the King and the other for the Queen, and a chair for the Prince of Wales. Now there is only one Throne. Here is a view of the Throne, showing the wonderful carving behind it.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

AFTER MORE than thirty members of the provincial legislature having spoken since the session opened, not one has informed the people how Social Credit is to be put into effect. Every address has contained nothing but what was said prior to the election, so that the repetition is without effect.

EVEN our own representative, E. O. Duke, was among the chorus of those who have wasted time talking, and a copy of the address forwarded to The Journal was carefully read to find if there was anything new, but not a thing.

THE ordinary man wonders why should all this time be wasted by any political party—no matter if it be Liberal, Conservative or Social Credit—if they haven't something useful to contribute towards legislation with a view to improving conditions. All the talk in the world availeth nothing unless there is action, and this has been lacking up till the present.

NEW ENTHUSIASM may be instilled into wavering hearts by the news that Major Douglas, Social Credit founder, will reach Alberta on March 30. His teachings have carried very little conviction, most people being unable to understand the terms in which he speaks. But he has a contract for about $11,000 with the provincial government, so presumably he will complete it this time, and return to England never to return as a Social Credit advisor to any Canadian government, provincial or Federal. The fact that R. J. Magor has been engaged to reconstruct Alberta's financial fabric with a view to putting it on a sounder basis, has been objected to by the Major, whose intricate phrases require a lot of unravelling before you glimpse just what he is trying to convey to the average mind. Douglas and Magor are so opposed in their financial theories, that Premier Aberhart will indeed have a difficult time trying to ride two horses of such contrasting dispositions. Magor represents orthodox finance; Douglas just a dreamlike theory.

THE PROPOSAL to put into effect codes for the regulation of retail prices will likely come to naught. It is a difficult thing to fix prices, as business is developed largely by competitive methods. It would be ideal if everyone knew just what goods should be bought and sold for; merchants as well as customers would be saved considerable worry over fluctuating prices. But business doesn't work that way; the law of supply and demand is ever at work, in the realms of nature as well as in the avenues of trade and commerce.

THE EXPERIENCE of the United States in trying to regulate business by codes does not encourage their use in Canada. Various trade organizations in Canada have tried to operate under codes, or regulated prices, and some with a good measure of success, but in effect it has amounted to price control by those who sell the goods, so that the benefit was all in favor of the seller.

RECENTLY radio listeners heard a ranting evangelist type of preacher from the southern States who had been engaged to astonish the natives of Alberta. Just what has happened to him since his campaign, nobody knows, and apparently does not care. He was one of those hallelujah, arm swinging, trombone playing type that would have been a great asset to a circus in leading the parade, but as for saving souls—well, our impression is that most people just got a pain in the neck and quickly turned the dial or shut off the radio.

IT SEEMS that some clergymen encourage this type of religious buccaneer. Notoriety and sensationalism is the stock in trade of this type of ranter. Most people would desire other company in any old place, heaven or hell. But some do like it, and climb up on the band-wagon every time something new in the way of religion is paraded before them. No wonder the churches complain of lack of support when so many are willing to give their cash towards religious-political evangelists who often sneer at the work of the orthodox churches.

IN THE HOUSE of Commons a member was bragging that he had no running water in his home, no bath-room or various other conveniences that might be regarded as necessities. He was talking on living within one's income. To do so is quite right and honorable, but it is not a virtue to do without conveniences if you can afford them. Most people would rather enjoy these sanitary conveniences for health's sake than spend their money in more extravagant ways, such as automobiles, for instance. But everyone to their own liking, for each has to live his own life and therefore may spend his money as he deems best and in a way by which he derives the most pleasure.

A DEMONSTRATION of evidence of faith in the future of Coleman is seen by the improvements and development work in the mining industry here.

Water Service Operating Under Many Difficulties

Frost Played Havoc With Pipes and Many Homes Without Water
Until Spring Thaw.

Despite persistent efforts and long hours of work by men thawing waterpipes, a large number of houses continue to be without water. Hundreds of thousands of gallons are being pumped daily, as there is a heavy wastage caused by taps left running, which is the only way in which those fortunate enough to have running water may retain it.

To speed up the thawing of pipes, an additional transformer which will enable greater heat to be put into the pipes will be in operation this week. In some houses efforts to get water have been unsuccessful, and it is hoped that with a greater volume of heat, many of those now without water will be thawed out by the new machine.

In the meantime, people are ac-customing themselves to the pioneer method of carrying water in pails from the nearest source of supply, and economizing on its use. Many are realizing the truth of the saying: "You never miss the water till the well runs dry."

Armed Robbery

cent years four thefts of money have been made, though this is the first armed robbery. Coupled with the robbery last week of Coleman
Co. Operative and the attempt on Coleman Hardware Co. store, the impression gains ground that there is a gang at work which includes men with a knowledge of the Pass towns.

W. Roughhead stated he had full view of one of the men, watching him through a window in the warehouse wall facing the office, and saw him coolly thrust the money into a sugar sack, scraping up every nickel, while his revolver lay beside him.

Men engaged in thawing out frozen pipes nearby saw nothing of the robbers, who must have timed their operations carefully to get away without being seen.

Up until early this morning no developments were reported by the police.

Quebec Winter Sport Mecca

Premier dog-racing event in North America, the International Dog Derby at Quebec City on February 20-21-22 is expected to attract hundreds of winter sports enthusiasts from Canada and the United States to see the leading mushers of the two countries in competition and to enjoy the skiing, tobogganing, skating, and curling centring around the famous Chateau Frontenac. An interesting duel is expected this year between Harry Wheeler, of St. Jovite in the Laurentians, champion last year, and Ovide Carriere, of Quebec City, who defeated Wheeler this year in Laconia, New Hampshire annual derby. A startling contrast to this event in Eastern Canada is the annual golf competition held about the same time at Victoria, B.C., in the Evergreen Playground of the West. Both are sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

played in Calgary on Wednesday, March 4. H. C. McBurney will accompany the team on their travels north, and is in great hopes of going on to Edmonton to match forces against the winners of the northern section. The finals for the northern division will be played over the week end between Luscar and Edmonton Superiors. All semi finalists this year are the same teams as last year, viz., Drumheller vs. Coleman, and Luscar vs. Edmonton.

Coleman's team is much stronger this year, therefore supporters have high hopes of capturing the provincial championship and advancing to the inter-provincial Allan Cup playdowns.

Already the seat sale indicates a sell out, many reservations having been made from distant towns in Southern Alberta, and it is estimated that 2500 people will pay admission to see the greatest event of the year in senior amateur hockey. It is probable that Earl Overand will be appointed by the hockey association to referee the game here. He has a reputation for his efficiency in handling important games.

Posters were printed this week by The Journal office for the annual dance on St. Patrick's night under the auspices of Coleman Elks Lodge. This is an occasion when everyone may have an enjoyable evening as a break in the Lenten season.

W. E. Simpson, who since July was accountant at Sentinel Motors, left by car on Tuesday for his home in Vancouver. He made quite a number of friends here during his stay. It is probable he may enter the employ of the provincial government in Victoria.

In preparation for the annual meeting of International Coal & Coke Co. Ltd., and McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co. Ltd., Hugh Davidson, of Vancouver, president of International, and Lorne Campbell, president of McGillivray, were here last week in consultation with the general manager, and vice president, George Kellock. The annual meetings of the companies will be held in Coleman on March 28.

A Remarkable Machine

A new photo-electriline which can work to a complicated design without human aid has been invented by a Russian engineer, V. S. Vichman, who works at the Moscow Institute of Machine Tools and Instruments.

With the aid of a photo-electric cell the lathe can "see" any drawings that are placed in it. Then, it is claimed, the shaping instruments are automatically adjusted.

Vichman's lathe has been adopted by the institute, which is now manufacturing others of similar design for use in industry.

Prehistoric Dragon Fly

Wing Of Thirty-Inch Specimen Found In Kansas

A remnant of one of the world's largest insects, a prehistoric dragon fly about 2½ feet long, was discovered in the limestone beds near Elmo, Kansas, by Dr. Frank M. Carpenter, of Harvard University museum of comparative zoology.

Only a part of one wing of the giant insect was found, but there was sufficient of this to accurately estimate the size of the entire specimen. Many other insects of this same family have been found previously in other parts of the world, so it was not difficult for Dr. Carpenter to estimate the size from the portions of the wing.

The giant insect was a member of a group known as Protodonata and lived in the Permian Age about 160,000,000 years ago. Insects of this type, with long thin bodies and thin wings, were the most powerful that ever lived and masters of the air in their time, scientists agree.

They were among the swiftest of insects and because of their great strength could cover great distances in one flight. They lived off smaller insects, as no birds or mammals lived in that age.

More than 8,000 prehistoric insects have been found by Harvard expeditions in these same limestone beds in Kansas, where they are unusually well preserved.

The only other insect ever found approaching the size of this specimen was uncovered in northern France about 50 years ago.

"Go West, Young Man"

New Novel, Recently Published, Should Make Strong Appeal To Western Readers

There have been few good novels about the kind of Canadians who comprise seventy per cent. of the population—the farm and rural people and the mass of "shirtsleeve" city workers.

Such books as have been written have been mostly about farm life, although rural farmers often have some difficulty in recognizing themselves!

So rural readers will find a warm welcome to "Go West, Young Man," a new novel by Bernard J. Farmer, which Thomas Nelson & Sons of Toronto have just published. For it shows accurately, excitingly, and yet poignantly, the experiences of a young man fresh from the Old Country, tossed into the whirlpool of "unskilled labour" on which Canada's impressive cities float.

Western readers will find it enlightening to get at first-hand embodied in a vividly written and exciting novel—the shift by which unskilled workers live. The hero of "Go West, Young Man" labours on railway section crews, sells silk stockings from door to door in Winnipeg, works on construction gangs in Manitoba, and mines in Northern Ontario. He often starves but never whines, is often down but never out, and in the end achieves contentment in a modest job—with a modest contented wife beside him.

The fact that so many incidents come from the personal experience of the author adds immensely to the book's value.

Reflector Buttons Said To Define Shoulder Of Road

Ever have trouble keeping an eye on the edge of the road when an approaching automobile throws its headlights into your eyes? You wouldn't if driving along the Berlin Turnpike alongside Mount Lamentation.

The Connecticut state highway department has granted permission for R. O. Smith, New Haven Insurance agent, to test his idea. It consists of small metal posts, set 120 feet apart, each with ten reflector buttons which throw back the lights of an approaching car and clearly define the shoulder of the road.

Explores Far North

Sergeant Of R.C.M.P. Is Made Fellow Royal Geographic Society

Sergeant H. W. Stalworthy of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, now stationed at Regina, has been made a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, it was learned at Ottawa.

Sgt. Stalworthy was attached to the Oxford University expedition which visited Ellesmere and under E. A. Shackleton, son of the late Sir Edward Shackleton.

The signal honor conferred on the young officer was due to his general record.

Sergeant Stalworthy for three years was stationed at Bache peninsula, where the most northerly R.C.M.P. post, where he made ineffectual but heroic efforts to discover the fate of Dr. H. E. Kreuger, German scientist, thought to have perished in the vicinity of Axel Heiberg island.

Stalworthy is credited with having penetrated farther north than any member of the silent force. He returned from Bache peninsula in 1933, joined the Oxford Arctic expedition in 1934, and after returning with the expedition party to England, came to Canada last autumn.

Before going to the eastern Arctic he saw service in the Mackenzie district. During the Great War Sgt. Stalworthy was in France and Belgium with the R.N.W.M.P. squadron attached to Canadian corps.

Dominion Disbursements From 1930 To 1935 Are Tabbed In House

Dominion disbursements under unemployment relief and farm legislation from 1930 to 1935 totalled $189,581,688, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons by Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor.

The disbursements were made under the following heads: Grants-in-aid to the provinces (August, 1934, to December, 1935), $21,098,657; direct relief, $61,211,621; provincial and municipal relief works, $48,465,575; relief settlement, $662,581; Saskatchewan relief commission, $12,732,617; expeditious of federal departments under relief legislation, $27,274,226; other relief projects, $3,069,776; administration, $467,896.

A Queer Wedding

Japanese Woman Vows To Marry Ashes Of Her Lover

To the strains of a funeral march Miss Masaka Sugisaki will be married in Tokyo, Japan, to the ashes of her lover, who died several months ago in America. Thirty years ago Toyochi Oya, her lover, left for the United States to make his fortune. After waiting several years the girl went as a tutor to a Russian family in St. Petersburg, hoping to earn enough to take her to her sweetheart. The revolution drove her back to Japan. Oya died in September and his body was cremated. The bronze urn containing his ashes reached Miss Sugisaki, and she made a vow: "Though you are dead, I will be your wife to fulfill our pledge of 30 years ago."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

VISION AND SERVICE

Golden text: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit. John 15:5.
Lesson: Luke 9.
Devotional reading: II Peter 1:16-21.

Explanations And Comments

The Vision on the Mount, Luke 9: 28-36. Taking with him his three favored disciples, the three who had been with him at the raising of the daughter of Jairus, and later were with him at the grave of Lazarus and in the Garden of Gethsemane, Jesus went up into the mountain to pray.

And as Jesus was praying, the fashion of his countenance was altered. (Matthew says, "His face did shine as the sun"), and his raiment became white and dazzling. Let us not think of a splendor falling on him from without and lighting him up, but rather, as has often been said, of a glory coming from within, corresponding to something going on in his mind. We are told that the face of Moses shone after he had been in communion with God on the Mount, and we can readily understand that after hours spent in prayer Jesus would be exalted in spirit and a new light would shine from his countenance, his whole appearance being changed. John G. Paton in his autobiography speaks of the wonder and awe with which he and his brother would notice the beautiful light on their father's face as he appeared after a time of seclusion when he had been talking with God.

The Service On The Plain, Luke 9:37-43. On coming down the mountain to its base Jesus and the three disciples found a great crowd gathered there; among them were scribes, who probably had been trying to undermine the influence of Jesus during his absence. As Jesus approached, all hastened to him and a man in the crowd cried out:

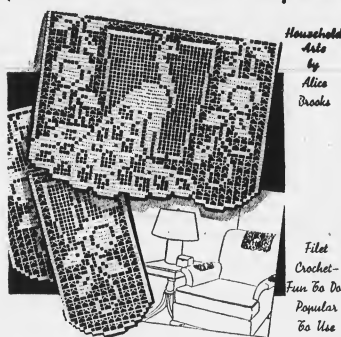

"Teacher, I beseech thee to look upon my son; for he is mine only child; and behold, a spirit taketh him, and suddenly crieth out; and it teareth him that he foameth, and it hardly departeth from him, bruising him sorely."

"Bring hither thy son," Jesus bade. Jesus healed him and gave him back to his father. See the account in Matthew 17. "And all were astounded at this grand display of God," Moffat's translation.

Asiatic Explorers Bring Collection Of Flora And Fauna From Tibet

Two Asiatic explorers are en route east with the collection of flora and fauna made in a recently completed two-year expedition into the one-time forbidden country of Tibet.

D. Dolan, explorer and research worker of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, and E. L. C. Schafer, scientist of the Berlin zoological gardens, left Vancouver for Chicago and Philadelphia. They were travelling via Calgary and Winnipeg.

Among the specimens they brought back are those of the wild yak and a full series of a large deer similar to the North American wapiti.

At present there is only one specimen of the yak, in Leningrad museum, and one of the deer species, in the British museum.

To Soften Hard Water

When it is desired to soften well water or spring water for household purposes this can usually be done with washing soda, or soap substitutes. When this is not satisfactory there is a chemical preparation in crystal form that can be obtained from your druggist. Water so treated must not, of course, be used for drinking or cooking purposes.

Rocket Planes

An Aerial Weapon For Destroying The Enemy At Long Range

War is likely to bring rocket planes into being, Professor Alexander Klemm, aeronautical expert of New York University, told members of the Electrochemical Society in New York.

"There are possibilities," he said, "of constructing an aerial weapon for destroying the enemy at 200-mile range without risking the life of a single pilot."

Stunt flying, he said, might be the first use of rocket ships. "Still later," he said, "there may be a system of mail-carrying across the Atlantic. Later still we can conceive of passenger-carrying by the rocket."

"Since the rocket carries its own oxygen and works perfectly well in a vacuum, it should, if light enough, be capable of sufficient acceleration to rise outside the earth's gravitational field at very high speeds, and once launched it would continue to fly through space unimpeded."

Professor Klemm saw four practical problems ahead for rocket planes, fuel first. He said the rocket motor is not likely to be of the gunpowder variety. Jet propulsion is the objective. The jet fuel would issue from a nozzle at speeds of nearly a mile a second.

The rocket ship, he explained, is efficient only when its own speed is nearly that of the fuel jet. This brings up the second problem, inefficiency at low speeds.

The third problem is that a rocket flying a couple of thousand miles an hour needs little wing area, but the opposite when landing or taking off.

Fourth is materials, especially for the exit nozzle of the motor, which is not only subjected to very high temperatures but to terrific erosion by fast moving gases.

Used For Centuries

Ethiopian Natives Find Carcade Plant Good Substitute For Tea. Italy is developing at Om Ager, Eritrea, an ibiscus plant called "carcade" to take the place of tea. At Heligoland 500 acres have been planted. Carcade has been used by the natives for centuries for tea-making. The plant produces red flowers which before they mature, are picked and dried. The dry petals are steeped and the brew is almost indistinguishable from real tea. The plant has the additional advantage of being a source of marmalade. The leaves are ground up and boiled for this purpose.

LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

Roper Kilgo, the boss of the Rawhide and nearby ranges, who seemed to approve the plan, but was really opposed to it, had forced Soak Torney, a devilish mining engineer, whom Kilgo knew would be called upon to give his expert opinion in favor of the scheme, to reverse his earlier endorsement, and declare that irrigation in Boone county so far as Fleming's plan was concerned was only a new-fangled way to waste money.

The meeting terminates, but Buzz Hamilton and his sister, Helen, Link and Kilgo stay behind and Helen asks Fleming questions about his irrigation plan. This angers Buzz, who accuses Fleming of trying to influence his sister. "PHILLIPS" is now the convenient term Phillips Milk of Magnesia Tablets. But he is sure you get Genuine "PHILLIPS".

depending on you, Ames! Get the lobo, 'cause we sure don't want him loose when we build that dam!"

Three men who leaned indolently against the section front of Sam Pickett's general store in Rawhide exchanged significant, knowing looks. By common consent they returned their eyes roadward to watch two riders whose mounts trudged with lowered heads through the turrey dust of Main Street.

One lank, stubble-chinned loafer fumbled for a match to relight his pipe. "Firm o' Hamilton & Fleming's come to town, boys."

A companion shifted his chew and spat into the street. "Can't you give 'em a kickin' more again?" he questioned sarcastically. "Link started out like he'd corraled all the dough in the state. Anyhow, he must've figured he had enough to throw away a fortune on the 'gineer' marvel o' the Goldsm West!"

They chuckled at this wit, their derision carrying plainly to the tall, spare shouldered rider. Annoyance fitted across Link's weathered face as he continued, and he glanced quickly at his companion. But the quiet smile from the shadow of her Stetson's frayed brim was reassuring.

They ignored the loafers and rode on, at length turning their mounts toward the hitchrack before the one-story clapped structure whose broad front window was lettered, "Stockmen's Bank of Rawhide."

The easy grace with which Helen Hamilton and her saddle did not escape Fleming's admiring gaze, nor the movement of her willowy figure as she stooped under the rack and straightened on the plank sidewalk in buckskin divided skirt, worn but carefully blacked boots with little spurs jingling as she walked, peaked Stetson, and a pongee blouse, she presented a picture which more than one man in Boone County was prone to view with keen appreciation.

Link dismounted and fastened his horse's reins as she had already fastened those of her pinto. Helen had paused at the window of Ivy Lane's jewelry store, and he moved to her side. His interested eyes sought the objects of her attention.

Several diamond solitaires, ringed from one hundred to five hundred dollars in front of which rested a card, "Special—20% Off."

Thrusting one hand into his trousers pockets, Link worked a ten and four-one dollar bills into a paper bag. Instantly he indicated a ring whose stone flashed brilliant red and blue darts more vivid than those of its competitors. "That's a nice lookin' one."

She cocked her head to calculate the ring's effectiveness. "Yes. It's the very nicest there."

In the silence that ensued Link's eyes roved the window display downward to Helen's slender, capable left hand at her side. There was a look of sober reflection on his face, and he shifted weight. Unexpectedly their eyes met, but fluttered down with instant embarrassment. Fleming's sinewy nut-brown fingers crushed the money in his pocket into a harder, smaller sphere.

"That ring'd shore look nice on your hand," he ventured. "I mean, it wouldn't be half good enough, but it'd look—"

"Well," Link shrugged, "when our dam begins to materialize and stuff grow in that wasteland, maybe Ivy Lane'll make a sale." He hesitated, summoning courage. "Would you be—pleased?"

"Yes, it must stick out all over me. But I reckon," he added in quick contrition, "I got no right to bring this up until our dam gets finished and we've paid our debts and folks quit sneering about Fleming's Folly." Then, he declared, his handsome face softening, "I'll be ridin' over to your Triple H some fine moonlight night. If I can work up the nerve. To ask a sort of—sort of important question."

There was a momentary silence. "Link, everything would suit me all right. Link, if the Triple H becomes prosperous I want to hire a lawyer to try to persuade the Governor to pardon—Buzz. Never a day passes but I think of him in that terrible place." A shudder made her shoulders quiver. "Wouldn't it be wonderful if I could somehow get him out of prison?"

Fleming gave her a sidelong glance. "Reckon I'd please you about as much as anything, wouldn't it, if I have Buzz free, so he wouldn't have to serve the rest of his three years."

As boots sounded closer along the hollow sidewalk Link turned, his expression changing to slight displeasure. He nodded to Kilgo, whose round, mottled face wore a grin ponderously genial.

"Spendin' yore dough before yuh got it, Helen?" He chuckled with tolerant comprehension of feminine vanities. "Wal, don't order a truckload o' jewelry unless yuh charge it to somebody that don't throw away good hard cash backin' Silver Creek into a lake. 'Course," Roper winked, pausing with feed wide apart and thick thumbs hooked in the cart—"I ain't sayin' I wouldn't be glad to foot the bill, at that."

"I wouldn't think of such a thing," she assured quickly.

He paused with an ironic look at Link. "How's the big dream of yuh's? Or are yuh snidin' out it's a nightmare?"

"Fine, thanks," Fleming rolled a cigarette and gazed with patient boredom down the street. "Helen, you excuse me a minute? I want to speak to Roper."

She nodded. The owner of the Box 50 Ranch watched him stride away, then chuckled. "Touchy about the dam ain't he? But he'll be touchier when his hull cow-horn goes up in smoke, an' there's a stack o' 'em."

Mothers Approve Guide to Better Control of Colds

Simple Plan Helps Them Gain Greater Freedom from Colds for Their Families

EASY TO FOLLOW IN THE HOME

Mothers throughout Canada are now helping their families to have fewer, milder and shorter colds—by following the famous Vicks VapoRub Plan for Better Control of Colds.

Developed especially for mothers, this practical Plan represents the 30 years' experience of Vicks Chemists and Medical Consultants in studying colds. It has been tested in exhaustive clinics by practicing physicians further proved in everyday home use from coast to coast.

Here, briefly, are its three simple steps:

1. To Help Build Resistance to Colds Live normally—avoid excesses. Eat simple food and keep circulation regular. Drink plenty of water. Take some exercise daily—outdoors preferably. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

2. To Help Prevent Many Colds At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks VapoRub.

3. To Help End a Cold Sooner If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, rub throat and chest at bedtime with Vicks VapoRub. VapoRub acts two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

What Vicks Plan can do for you and your family can be proved only by trying it. You'll find full directions for following the Plan in any package of Vicks VapoRub or Vicks VapoRoll.

or fills a foot high stamin' him in the face!"

"Link won't be alone in trouble," she reminded with quiet dignity.

Kilgo's florid face showed concern. "That's what I don't like." His heavy-lidded eyes noted the grace of her lithe figure. "Shore would hate to see yore apread busted, Helen. Looks to me like this is a scurvy trick to wack yuh half the cost of the dam."

The pressure of her cherry lips showed the girl trying to stifle impatience. "Why talk about it?" she asked wearily. "We've been over this a dozen times. It all comes down to whether one believes in irrigation. You don't, but I do."

"Yeah, but it kind of rubs me the wrong way. I talk about it because so much time for me any more. And you and I used to be—"

"Elease, Roper."

He scowled. "But look here, Helen, I'm pretty fond of yuh. Always was. Guess you kind of like me too, eh?"

She saw Link and Sheriff Ames Stephen in earnest conversation, and seeking escape, turned on her heel. That reminds me, I must get a few things at Pickett's store."

Work Nearly Completed

Canadian Memorial On Vimy Ridge To Be Unveiled July 24

After 12 years in London and France, with visits to Italy and Dalmatia, Walter S. Allward, the Toronto sculptor, has nearly completed the Canadian war memorial on Vimy Ridge, which is to be ready for unveiling July 24.

The London correspondent of the Guardian writes:

"The memorial is in the form of a great stone platform, with two pylons rising to 140 feet the length of the base being about 240 feet. There are 20 heroic figures in the composition. On the walls of the memorial are inscribed the names of 11,500 missing Canadian soldiers. The stone is Dalmatian limestone from a quarry used in the third century for the palace of Diocletian in Spalato. Some 70,000 cubic feet of this stone were required."

"It is 12 years since Mr. Allward came over to London to begin the construction of the memorial, and the delay in carrying it out has been largely due to difficulties in the delivery of the stone."

"Mr. Allward's London studio is that low romantic building built for Alfred Gilbert in the 80's. You enter from Maids Vale, at a part where tall, smart flats have risen opposite and on both sides of the house since Mr. Allward and his family took up their residence there. The main room is a long barrel-vaulted apartment where Gilbert held his Bohemian parties and where the Allwards have welcomed Canadian visitors and most of the eminent English sculptors and architects of our time."

It will be a wrench for them to leave London when the work is over, for few overseas residents at Manchester have acquired so many friends.

There will, however, be compensation when he returns to Canada. He has endured many London fog and much darkness through the day, and on occasion he has had to work by torchlight through failure of light equipment. His admiration is unbounded for London sculptors, who have to work in so much darkness and discomfort on an outdoor statutory that takes the grime of London so quickly and never looks as the sculptor intended after the first six months, be it in marble, bronze or stone. Still, Mr. Allward has a real love for London. He even admits that some day he may return."

Tailors of Spain have drawn up a "black list" of slow-payers.

Scotland's new national park will cover 100 square miles.

Little Helps For This Week

The cup which my Father has given me, shall I not drink it? John 18:11.

Every sorrow every smart. That the Eternal Father's heart. Hath appointed me of yore. Or hath yet for me in store. As my life flows, I'll take Calmly, gladly, for His sake.

The very least and the very greatest sorrows that God suffers to befall thee proceed from the depths of His unspokeable love; and such great love were better for thee than the highest and best gifts He has given thee, or could ever give thee, if thou couldst but see it in this light. So if you are cold, if you are hungry or thirsty, or if others vex you by their words or deeds, or whatever happens to you that causes you distress or pain, it will all help to fit you for a nobler life.

Sanctions Help Venice

Have Resulted In Keeping Motor

For more than twenty years lovers of Venice, both Italian and foreign, have lamented the advent and increase of motor craft upon her famed canals, not only on account of the horrible smells they spread all over the city but also because they have gone so far to destroy her traditional serenity and romantic peace. Now along come sanctions, imposed by the League of Nations, which undoubtedly are pinching Italy considerably so far as her war plans are concerned, but which are hailed by the Venetians as something little short of a godsend, since a direct result has been that the motor craft have been banned and the gondolas have come once more into its own—Montreal Star.

Many Improvements at International Mine

Commodious New Wash-house and New Lamp House Furnish Added Conveniences to Miners and Officials.

A feat worthy of more than passing notice is the moving of the old wash-house at International mine and yet maintaining it in operation during the several days taken in its removal to make room for the erection of a fine new wash house which is now nearing completion.

The old building, which has served for many years, was moved about 200 feet, taking several days by means of four horses attached to a winch. During the moving, the wash-house was used and not a steam pipe was broken or any interruption made in normal service, even the concrete floor being moved intact with the rest of the building. When the fact is taken into consideration that about 350 men use the bath-house daily, it shows that careful planning was required to maintain service.

The new building is of concrete structure, and the room in which the hot and cold showers are installed is of tile construction, giving a clean white surface which looks quite attractive. It is 90 x 50 feet and 12 feet in height on the inside. J. S. D'Appolonia is in charge of construction.

Another fine improvement is the new lamphouse, replacing that which has served for more than 25 years. In place of the men filing along the outside of the old building to check in and get their lamps they now enter a warm steam heated building, check in and receive their lamps, and just a few steps from the lamphouse is a new entrance to the mine, so that exposure to the weather is reduced to a minimum.

The sub-telephone exchange in the building connects with all parts of the mine workings and also with the up-town office.

Many other improvements have been made or are under way, replacing old buildings which have done duty for many years, besides which underground development is being carried on in a big way. To see such development indicates that Coleman is in for steady development of general business as a result of the mining companies' foresight and enterprise, necessitating heavy expenditures.

When George Derbyshire is installed in charge of the new wash-house, he will be quite a proud man, feeling much like the chap who sang: "I'm the king of the castle." You'll have to clean your shoes before entering its portals. Over at the new lamphouse Reg Jones Garrett, Mrs. Havelock Hulbert, prizes being for the highest and works in comfort, and below zero H. T. Halliwell and S. Bettinger.
